Select Poetry.

Oh! BE NO NOT THE FIRST.

"Oh! be not the first to discover
A blot on the name of a friend,
A flaw on the faith of a lover,
Whose heart may be true to the end.

We none of us know one another,
And oft into error we fall;
So let us speak well of each other,
Or speak not at all.

A smile or a sign may awaken
Suspicion, most false and undue;
And thus our belief may be shaken
In hearts that are honest and true.

How often the light smile of gladness
Is worn by a friend that we meet,
To cover a soul full of sadness,
Too proud to acknowledge defeat.

How often the friends we love dearest,
Their noblest emotions conceal;
And bosoms, the purest, sincerest,
Have secrets they cannot reveal.

How often the sigh of dejection
Is heaved from the hypocrite's breast;
To parody truth and affection,
Or lull a suspicion to rest.

Leave base minds to hover suspicion,
And small ones to trace our defects;
Let ours be a nobler ambition,
For base is the mind that suspects.

We none of us know one another,
And oft into error we fall,
So let us speak well of each other,
Or speak not at all.

Select Miscellany.

John Walton's Revenge.

BY HORATIO ALGER, JR.

"Be off from here, you little beggar!" said Oscar Ronalds imperiously.

The speaker was a well dressed boy of fourteen, and the words were addressed to a boy of about his own age and his sister of eight. The contrast between their outward appearance was striking. Oscar was of light complexion and looked like a petted child of the aristocracy. He held a club in his hand, which it might be judged from his scowling face he would not be unwilling to use.

John Walton, who confronted him without fear, was a stouter boy than Oscar. His complexion was dark; his hair, black as a raven's wing, hung over his forehead. His clothing was coarse and well-worn, his pants were tucked up nearly to his knees, and shoes and stockings were luxuries which he dispensed with. His little sister, terrified by Oscar's rude manners, clung to her brother in affright.

"Don't be scared of him, Lizzie," said John "He won't dare to touch us."

"Won't I though?" said Oscar, clutching his stick tighter.

"Not if you know what is best for yourself," said John, looking fixedly at him

"You have no business here, you beggar," said Oscar furiously.

"I am no begger," said the barefoot boy proudly.

"This is my father's land. Can you deny that?" demanded Oscar.

"I know it is, and I suppose it will be yours some day.

"Then why have you intruded here?"

"I did not suppose it would do any harm to pick a few berries, which would otherwise decay on the vines.

"Then you know it now. I don't care for the berries, but don't want any beggar's brats on my father's place.

"Stop there, young master," said John firmly. "You called me a beggar, and I did not care much, but if you call my mother by that name you will be sorry

"I?" said Oscar, contemptuously—"What will you do?"

"I will beat you with that stick you hold in your hand."

"Then I do call her a beggar," said John furiously. "What are you going to do about it?"

"You will see."

John Walton let his sister's hand fall, and springing upon Oscar wrenched the stick from his hand, laid it over his back with sharp emphasis three times, and then flung it into the pool hard by.

Leaving his young enemy prostrate, he took his terrified sister by the hand, and saying, "we will go home now, Lizzie," and walked quietly away.

Oscar picked himself up, mortified and furious He would have pursued John and wreaked instant vengeance upon him if he had dared, but in the hands of the young savage, as he mentally characterized him, he had felt his own utter inability to cope with him, and resolved that vengeance should come in another shape,

My father shall turn the beggars out of house and home," he muttered. "I wish they might starve."

The father of Oscar Ronalds was the proprietor of a handsome house and large land estate, including several tenements which he rented out. In the poorest of these lived John Walton and his mother. They lived poorly enough, how it would be hard to tell, but at all events they lived and never sought help.

When John told the story of his encounter to his mother, she was disturbed, fearing that trouble might come of it. So, indeed, it did.

The next morning Squire Ronalds, with his stiff, erect figure, was seen approaching the widow's cottage.

Mrs. Walton opened the door.

"Won't you come in, Squire Ronalds," she said nervously.

"No, Madame, I have but a word to say, and that is soon said. Are you aware that your boy grossly insulted my son Oscar, yesterday?"

"He told me that Oscar called me names, and he knocked him down. He has a hasty temper."

"Your son is a ruffian ma'am."

"Not so bad as that. He is a good boy to me, Squire Ronalds"

"It is a pity he can't treat others with proper respect.

"Do you think he was wholly to blame?"

"Certainly he was. My son caught him trespassing on my land, and very properly ordered him off. I don't care to argue the matter. If he will apologize to Oscar I will let it pass Otherwise, as your month is up to-day, I shall require you to leave this tenement."

John, who had been inside and heard what had been said, came forward looking resolute and self sustained.

"I shall not apologize to Master Oscar, sir," he said "It is he who should apologize to me."

"Apologize to you! That would look well, would it not?" said the Squire scornfully.

"It would be right," said John firmly.

"You are an impudent young rascal"

"Mother," said John quietly, there is no use listning further. I shall not apologize, and am ready to take the consequences. Don't be alarmed. I'll take care of you."

"You must leave this house to-morrow," roared Squire Ronalds, in a very undignified rage, stamping his gold headed cane upon the ground.

"Very well." said John 'Good day, sir," and closed the door, leaving the Squire under a vague impression that he had got the worst of the encounter.

"What shall we do, John?" said Mrs. Walton, dismally.

"I'll tell you, mother." said John.—"There is nothing for me to do here—We will go to Brandon, where there are woolen mills. Then I can get a chance to work, and I will rise, never fear. It is best for us to go."

The next day Mrs. Walton's tenement was empty, and no one knew where the family had gone. Oscar exulted in what he regarded as his triumph.

Twenty years passed. To the barefooted boy they brought wonderful changes At twenty-four he found himself superintendent of the mill where he had entered as a poor operative, earning a salary of five thousand dollars a year He had built a handsome house, over which his mother presided with matronly dignity. His sister Lizzie was the wife of a young physician in successful practice in the same town.

One winter evening they were all seated in a luxuriously furnished room, before a glorious fire. His sister had come to spend the afternoon, but was prevented by the violent storm from returning to her own home.

"What a storm it is!" she exclaimed wondering. "I pity those who are out in it."

"Yes," said her brother, "it is the most violent storm of the year. The snow must be two feet deep at least. But we need not feel troubled. It is summer indoors."

"Who would have thought, John, that we should come to live in such comfort!" said his mother. "Twenty years ago we were poorly off."

"I well remember it. It was a lucky thing we came to Brandon."

"So it has turned out. But I was alarmed when you quarreled with young Oscar Ronalds."

"I have forgiven him. The harm he intended has only done us good.

"Have you heard anything of him lately?"

"Not lately. His father died ten years since, and I am told that Oscar is very extravagant. That is all."

The storm increased in violence, shaking the house, firm and strong as it was All at once the door-bell rang sharply.

"I will go myself," said John. "The servant may not be able to close the door again."

He opened the front door, and a sharp cutting wind entered with a flurry of snow.

"Will you give me shelter?" said a faint voice.

It was a man who spoke still young He stepped in quite exhausted. John Walton closed the door.

"You have had a hard struggle with the storm, have you not?" he said.

"I have indeed I am chilled to the bone."

"Come into the fire," and John threw open the door of the sitting-room.

He perceived that the stranger had no over-coat and appeared thoroughly chilled. Warm drinks were ordered, and in half an hour he was more comfortable. He looked thin and haggard, and his face bore the impress of dissipation.

He had more than once looked earnest at John Walton. Finally he said abruptly.

"Will you tell me your name? Your face looks familiar.

"My name is John Walton.

"What!" said the other with a start, "Did you live, when a boy, in the town of M——!"

"Yes, but I dont remember you."

"I am Oscar Ronalds," said the other in a low voice.

"Is it possible?" exclaimed the three; and they involuntarily glanced at the ill-clad stranger.

"I see what you are thinking of. I don't look much like the boy you used to know. I have been wild and extravagant, and lost or squandered all my property. I have gone down hill—you have gone up."

"I am sorry for your misfortunes," said John, kindly. "If I can be of any service to you, I will."

"I came here hoping to get the post of clerk, which I understood was vacant. If I had known you were here, I would not have come."

"And why?"

"Because you cannot have forgotten my ill treatment of you."

"It is not forgotten, but quite forgiven," said John Walton, kindly. Unconsciously you did me a service. The clerkship you seek is mine to bestow. You shall have it, and I will guarantee your good conduct. The salary will be small, only eight hundred dollars."

"It will be a fortune to me, who am penniless. God bless you, John Walton, for your generosity. You shall not find your confidence ill-bestowed.

I have no more to tell, except that then and there began a new and better life for Oscar, who was after a while promoted, and now has a modest but cheerful home of his own, with a good wife to add to his happiness. And this was John Walton's revenge—a noble and Christian revenge, the only one worth taking for an injury

ANECDOTE OF GENERAL GRANT.—After the capture of Vicksburg, steamers ran in there to take furloughed troops up the river, charging as high as $30 for a passage from Vicksburg to Cairo. Says our author:

The steamer had its decks crowded with soldiers, and Grant said to a man standing on the wheelhouse giving orders loudly:

"Are you Captain on this boat?"

"Yes, General."

"How many soldiers have you on board?"

"About 1,250."

"What have you charged for fare to Cairo?"

"From ten to twenty-five dollars each, General."

"Ten to twenty-five dollars each?—Is that all? Why that is too moderate! It is a pity you should have to take the boys for so small a sum. You had better wait a while."

Speaking to the officer on board, he walked away. The steamer whistled the bell rang, the wheels began to move slowly; but, for some reason, she was not cast off. The men could not understand it until, in a few moments an order came from the guard to keep the steamer until the Captain paid back all over $7 taken for fare from each officer, and all over $5 from each soldier, and the order was obeyed. The men knew they had been victimized, but felt helpless.—When they learned what the General had done, they gave three cheers."

A WORD FOR BOYS.—Truth is one of the rarest of gems. Many a boy has been lost in society by allowing it to tarnish his character, and foolishly throwing it away.

If this gem still shines in your bosom, suffer nothing to displace or diminish its luster.

Profanity is a mark of low breeding. Show us the man that commands the best respect; an oath never trembles on his tongue. Read the catalogue of crime. Inquire the character of those who depart from virtue Without a single exception, you will find them to be profane. Think of this, and don't let a vile word disgrace you.

Honesty, frankness, generosity, virtue—blessed traits! Be these yours, my boys, and we shall not fear. You will claim the respect and love of all. You are watched by your elders. Men who are looking for clerks and apprentices have their eyes on you. If you are profane, vulgar, theatre-going, they will not choose you If you are upright, steady and industrious, before long you will find good places, kind masters, and the prospect of a useful life before you

RHYME AND REASON.—There is a good deal more truth than poetry in the following, which we cut from an exchange, without knowing the author's name.—He was sensible, whoever he may have been.

"When trade grew slack, and notes fell due, the merchant's face grew long and blue; his dreams were troubled thro' the night with sheriff's bailiff's all in sight. At last his wife unto him said, rise up at once, get out of bed, and get your paper ink and pen, and say these words unto all men:—

My goods I wish to sell to you, and to your wife and daughters too: my prices are so very low, that each will buy before they go."

He did as his good wife advised, and in the paper advertised. Crowds came and bought of all he had, his notes were paid, his dreams were glad, and he will tell you to this day, how well did printer's ink repay.

He told us with a knowing wink, how he was saved by printer's ink.

A WAGGISH journalist, who is often merry over his personal plainness tells this story of himself: I went to a chemist the other day for a dose of morphine for a sick friend. The assistant objected to give it to me without a prescription, evidently fearing that I intended to commit suicide. "Pshaw!" said I. "do I look like a man who would kill himself?"

Gazing steadily at me a moment, he replied, "I don't know. It seems to me if I looked like you, I should be greatly tempted to kill myself.

Don't be too anxious to solve a conundrum: We know a man who got two black eyes in endeavoring to find out the "difference between a man and woman fighting in the street."

Odds and Ends.

—The world knows more of God by its wisdom, than by its folly.

—A revenue cutter, is the man who dose not pay his income tax.

—Why is coffee like an axe with a dull edge? Because it requires grinding.

—Why is a tread mill like a true convert? Because its turning is the result of a man's conviction.

—Did you ever see a woman who had to be told of her beauty before she was aware of it herself.

—Oh dear? I had a bad spell last night,' said an old lady to her son.—"You are old enough to spell well, and read too," was the cant reply.

—A man being asked, as he lay sunning himself in the grass, what was the height of his ambition, replied: To marry a rich widow with a bad cough."

—What is the difference between a legal document and a cat? One has pauses at the end of its clauses, and the other has claws-es at the end of its paws'es.

—An unmarried lady on this side of fifty, hearing of the marriage of a young friend, observed with a deep sigh—"Well, as soon as the infants are disposed of, I suppose the women will have a chance."

—A cotemporary, lauding a well-known citizen just elected to office, says, "He is one of the cleverest fellows that ever lifted a hat to a lady, or a boot to a blackguard."

—A waggish editor says that the streets of one of the Western cities are to be lighted with red headed girls. That will be bad—too many people will be found hugging the lamp posts.

—Fear not, trembling believer. The bark which bears the spiritual destinies is in better hands than thine; a golden chain of covenant love links it to the throne. He who holds it in his hands gives thee this as the pledge of thy safety: "Because I live, ye shall live also.

—After much training of quite a youngster to keep him still at the table long enough for "the blessing," he sat very quietly one day till near the close of the service, his mother beginning inwardly to congratulate herself that for once he had kept still, when he suddenly called out: "A'll do, papa; pass plates now."

—Friend Mallaby, I am pleased that thee has got a fine organ in thy church." "But," said the clergyman, "I thought you were strongly opposed to having an organ in a church?" "So I am," said Friend Obadiah, "but then if thee will worship the Lord with machinery, I would like thee to have a first rate instrument,'

—An advocate of total abstinence was once urging a confirmed toper to forego his favorite Monongahela, and substitute water in its stead declaring the claims water possessed over all other fluids as a beverage. "I know," said Tipsy, "water is a fine thing but then it is so blamed thin."

—UNCLE—"I dare say when I take you home again, Charlie, your mamma will have a nice present for you. What would you like best, my boy—a little brother or a little sister?"

Charley (after some hesitation)—"Well, if it makes no difference to ma, I'd rather have a little pony."

—The morality of some people is like their crockery; they have two sets, one for show and one for use; and they both answer the same purpose, the one satisfies the minds of other people, the other their own. But this much may be said of both, that however well they may serve the purpose of this world they are of no value for the next.

—WISHES OF LADIES.—First, a husband; second, a fortune; third a baby; fourth, a trip to France; fifth, a better-looking dress than any of her neighbors, sixth, to be well buttered with flattery; seventh to have nothing to do in particular; eighth, to be handsome; ninth, to be thought well of; tenth, to make a sensation; eleventh to attend weddings; twelfth, to be always considered under thirty.

—HOW SHE KNEW.—Two young Misses, discussing the qualities of some young gentlemen, were overheard thus:

"Well, I like Charley, but he is a little girlish; he hasn't got the least bit of a beard."

"I say Charley has got a beard, but he shaves it off."

"No, he hasn't neither, any more than I have."

"I say he has, too, and I know it, for it pricked my cheek."

That's how she knew.

—A youth who desired to know how to become rich sent a quarter in answer to an advertisement, and received the following valuable receipt:

"Increase your receipts and decrease your expenditures. Work eighteen hours a day, live on hash and oat meal gruel."

—A talented young African of the boot black persuasion, while dancing over a customer's boots the other day observed a neighbor poring wisely over a newspaper, wherefore he addressed him thus:

"Julius, what the debel you looking at dat paper fur? You can't read."

"Go way, fellah," replied the other indignantly. "Guess I can read. I'se big nuf fur dat."

"Big nuf," retorted the first one scornfully. "Dat ain't nuffin. A cow's big nuf to catch a mice, but she can't do it."

Speech of General Carl Schurz.

We give below an extract from the speech of General Carl Schurz, made before the General Assembly of Missouri on receiving the official announcemnet of his election as United States Senator:

"In order to arrive at a permanent basis, we must endeavor to close up the distracting agitations which have sprung from our civil conflict. The body politic needs rest, but it can and will have no undisturbed repose as long as there are classes of men that have to struggle for their rights. Our Democratic system of government can stand with security only upon the foundation of impartial justice and rights equal to all. [Applause.] It is not in consideration of the loyalty of the negro alone that we strive to extend the right of suffrage to the colored people. It is our interest no less than theirs; it is the general interest of society, which demands that the laboring man, whatever his race or color, should possess the political rights wherewith to defend his freedom, independence, and manhood, and that all those stimulants of improvement should be furnished to him which are calculated to raise him to the highest measure of usefulness. [Applause.]—Thus we shall only be just to ourselves in being just to them. To protect and secure the free development of the new order of things, it has been found necessary to take away the power for mischief from the hands of those who, during the great national crisis, stood up against us as the enemies of the good cause. This was necessary, and therefore justifiable. A few days ago I declared here, in your presence, as my opinion—which I repeat now, only translating it from the language of defense into that of positive assertion—that the act of justice to loyal men stands first in rank, and that acts of grace to our late enemies are in order only as will be consistent with the safety of the loyal people; that I will not consent to arm the late rebels with power, in a manner which would enable them to deprive loyal men of their rights. By this declaration I mean to stand [Applause.]

On the other hand, I am sure I express the feelings of the Radical party of Missouri when I say—and here again I am only amplifying what I stated a few days ago—that it is a sense of necessity and justice that moves us, and not rankling hate or desire of revenge. While we do not approve of that kind of forgiveness to the late enemies of the Republic which consists of its forgetfulness of its friends, we swear to show that the dark fanaticism which will never forgive is foreign to our hearts, and that it is not our desire to humiliate, but to improve and bring back to their duty those who have gone astray. [Great applause] I repeat again the words of Gen Grant: "We cannot go to them, they must come to us; but when they do come as improved men, we must not repel them." More than that, we must encourage them to improve and come. [Applause.] Let us make them understand that they have only to do full justice to all the friends of the Union, and that they may count upon full mercy to themselves; that they have only to come to us as men sincerely loyal to the new order of things, and we shall meet them with the open hand of welcome. [Applause.]

Let us convince them that, although we detest treason as heartily as ever, we shall hail with shouts of gladness the day when the rights of all will be safe under the custody of all, and when the last of the rebels can be received back into the communion of the loyal people. [Great applause.] Let them be convinced of this, and I am confident that although there may be many who still, with dogged infatuation, continue to hug their old idols, yet thousands of the young and vigorous, especially of those who, during the conflict as soldiers, never swerved from the way of honorable warfare, will soon be glad to recognize the opportunity to regain their own rights by respecting the rights of others, and to serve their own interests by serving the interests of all. [Great applause].

Let us not indiscriminately condemn the well disposed with the incorrigible, and thus force them to remain altogether as a class, but stimulate every germ of good there is in them; give these who are inclined to do right our generous encouragement; put a premium on good conduct, and pay it promptly. [Applause.] Every payment thus made will prove a good investment. And as we approach the great consummation, many, many of our late enemies will be willing to acknowledge that in being the true friends of their country we were their true friends, and that whatever may have separated us in the past, common interests must bind us together in the future. Such a policy, far from endangering our ascendency, will only strengthen our moral power. [Applause.] It will not be a mere favor extended to rebels, but a service rendered to the people. There is no way in which harmony, peace and general prosperity can be better restored than by a policy calculated to identify the personal interests of the individual citizen with the common welfare, and to enlist the energies of all in the common good. [Applause.]

A WOMAN lately looking at a press, on which the Sanfrancisco Free Press was being printed, looked up in the face of her male companion, and in the most earnest manner inquired, "Arrah, Tim! an' them's the things as writes the papers? Be's them the things they call idaters? Holy Mother of Moses! does the Yankees lie, abuse and blackguard aitch other bymachinery?"

Wanted---Young Men.

It is said that the market is overstocked with men seeking employment, and yet there is always a demand for intelligent, reliable and energetic men to fill places of trust and position. But they must be members, not only of the genus homo," but of the species vir;' for such, there are always open places waiting to be filled.

Who are the men that are needed in this world? Young men that will bear burdens. We have enough mullen stalks, we want oak trees. We have enough mushrooms, we want timber. We have enough men that are willing to do anything for the sake of getting along, but what are they worth? They are bridges for men to walk over. They are tools.—Men use them like sand-paper, to scour with, and then throw them down and trample them under foot. A young man that does not know how to say "No;" a young man that has not power to resist the cup when it is presented to him—what is he but a poor miserable washcloth, but a rag, dishonored, and put to the vilest uses? Who cares for him, or mourns over him, but some Christian mother, or Christian minister? But a young man that knows how to say "No;" that knows how to resist evil, that knows how to give buffet for temptation—is not he hardening himself? Is not he making his bones tough—particularly his backbone? He is becoming columnar. And it is such as he that are sought after in business. A man says, "Here is a difficult appariment in my establishment, and I would pay almost any price if I could find a man that I could trust." Says the man whom he addresses, "I know an impracticable sort of a fellow I think might suit you. He will stick to what he thinks is right at all hazards. You cannot turn him from it by any power on earth." Says the other man, "I want a lignumvitæ man; send him to me." Let it be known that a man cannot be cajoled; that he will not lie even for himself; that he will not steal, and has a prejudice against stealing; let it be known that he has been tried, and that there is an inward principle in him, and let us put him up at auction, and I will get a million bid on him! Men are the things that are most needed in New York. Why, there is no timber in the market that is gathered up as greedily as they are! There is nothing so much needed in business in all departments of it, as moral principle. And yet merchants will teach young men to lie; and, for the sake of momentary profit, cajole customers. And when, by-and-by, these young men grow up, they become on their own account, fliehers, stealers and liars. You think that the young men of this generation are corrupt and worthless. They are; but the blame rests on your shoulders. You were their schoolmasters. You taught them to lie and cheat in your interests; and now they do it in their own. Now your own chickens come home to roost. Merchants North and South have been raising, by the wholesale, damnable young men without principle. And a young man, if he would save himself from destruction, must cling to that "anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, which entereth into that within the veil," Nothing else can insure him safety.—Lutheran Observer.

WHEN Abraham Lincoln was a lawyer in Illinois, he and the Judge once got to bantering one another about trading horses, and it was agreed that the next morning at 9 o'clock, they should make a trade, the horses to be unseen until that hour, and no backing out, under a forfeit of $25. At the hour appointed, the Judge came up, leading the sorriest looking horse ever seen in those parts. In a few minutes Mr. Lincoln was seen approaching with a wooden saw horse on his shoulder. Great were the shouts and laughter of the crowd, and both were greatly increased, when Mr. Lincoln, on surveying the Judge's animal, set down his saw horse, and exclaimed, "Well, Judge, this is the first time I ever got the worst of it in a horse trade."

An editor of a paper informed his readers that the ladies always pull off the left stocking last. This, as may be supposed, created some stir among the fair readers, and while in positive terms they denied the statement, they insisted that he had no business to know it, even if such were the fact, and pronounced him no gentleman. He proves it, however, by a short argument: "When one stocking is pulled off there is another left on; pulling off this is taking the left stocking off last.

POETIC.—One of the boys indites the following to his lady love:

And when the reverend sire shall say,
"My son, take thou this daughter!
I'd answer him in fearless tone,
"I shan't do nothin' shorter!"
Will you my son, support and nourish
This flower I give to thee?"
I'd give my white kid gloves a flourish,
"And answer, "Yes, Sir-ee!"

AN INDIAN complained to a rumseller that the price of his liquor was too high. The latter, in justification said it cost as much to keep a bogshead of brandy as to keep a cow. "May be he drink as much water," replied the Indian, "but he no eat so much hay."

—It was wittily, but somewhat ungallantly said that a woman is the very reverse of her mirror,—the one reflects with out talking, the other talks without reflecting.

Home Industry.

The question of home industry is one that interests every citizen of Pennsylvania. It is a question that every voter should fully understand. In consequence of the late rebellion we have been unable to secure as high a tariff as the country and the laboring interests demand; but our present rates are much better than under the free-trade Democratic tariff of 1846. The people of Central Pennsylvania will not soon forget the terrible panic and hard times of 1857, growing out of the free trade policy of the Democratic party. Under the workings of that tariff dictated, and forced upon the country by the Democratic lords of the lash—Southern nabobs—who advocated the doctrine that capital "should own its labor," black or white, and acquiesced in by their supple tools—tools of all work, dirty or clean—the Democratic leaders of the North, all the furnaces, forges, rolling mills, wire mills, nail factories, woolen mills, cotton mills, and manufacturing establishments of every kind, were compelled to close, and the sturdy operatives were sent adrift without money and without hope of finding work, or the means of subsistence for themselves and families.—The sufferings, the horrors and crimes of that year are without a parallel in American history, and no laboring man should ever wish to look upon "its like again."

It is true, money has been scarce this winter, and work has not been as plenty as it should have been, and while it is equally true that this state of things is partly owing to our defective tariff system, and the heavy balance of trade always against us; yet the more direct cause is to be attributed to the corruption and selfishness of Railroad stock-jobbers, and wheat, cotton, and gold speculators, aided, we think, by the corrupt official who, under Andy Johnson, controls the U. S. Treasury. With money as scarce as it now is, and with a less efficient tariff than we now have, we would have experienced, aye suffered, all the horrors, privations and starvation of 1857.

Permit us to ask the question: With money as scarce as it is now, and without our present tariff law, what would have been the fate of our lumbering interests? Would not the Messrs. Curtin, Linn & McCoy, Valentines & Co., and all the furnaces, forges, rolling mills, &c., have been compelled to stop as they did in 1857? What, then, must have been the condition of hundreds of good and true men who depend upon these manufactories for employment? With the furnaces stopped, would not the mining, the wood-chopping, the coaling, the hauling and the home market of the farmer all have ceased? With these facts established and the history of the past fresh in the minds of all, why should any intelligent man be found so false to himself, his family and his country, as to vote with the Democratic party, in favor of free trade, English prosperity and AMERICAN RUIN.

On the 4th of March Gen. Grant will be inaugurated President of the United States. The reign of Andrew Johnson will cease—with it will cease the corruptions and machinations of his dishonest officials. With Grant's inauguration we may look for a revival of trade and better times generally.—And with such true and tried men as the Hon. Simon Cameron and John Scott, in the United States Senate, and with such men in Congress as our own Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong, who is a black tariff man, may we not hope for such a revision of the tariff as will throw the balance of trade in our favor, and thus render powerless the heartless speculators in the blood and sweat of the toiling millions, and enable us to laugh to scorn all their attempts to create money panics in the future. Let us hope and wait.

Financial Abuses.

It is reported by Secretary M'Culloch that the Government has since 1860, realized $298,782,329 of currency, by the secret sales of gold; $117-814'747, by the secret sales of 7-30 bonds; $454,724,096 by similar sales of 5-20s; $63,940,800 from 10-40s; making a total of $1,035,261,982, as the gross secret operations of the Government, besides $958,342,900, part of which were secret and part open transactions. This shows the extent to which the Secretary had been manipulating the market. On these immense sums the commissions to brokers have been literally thrown away, since they might have been saved by properly advertising and selling directly from the Treasury.

Of all the $3,062,450,379 negotiated during the past few years, only about $1,000,000,000 have been done as a business man would have managed, to-wit, by inviting the best proposals for taking the loans. Beside, the plan that has been pursued has opened a wide door for official peculation and official enrichment. How much has been made in these transactions it is impossible to know, until the great books that we read of shall be opened. Mr. Conkling's bill is designed to prevent this abuse.

MONEY is becoming easier in the cities.

Hon. Mathew Hale Carpenter.

The Wisconsin Legislature, largely Republican, has done honor to itself and to the State, by electing to the U. S. Senate, M. H. CARPENTER. Mr. CARPENTER is a first class lawyer, having few, if any, superiors among the eminent men who stand foremost for legal accumen and forensic eloquence in the Supreme Court of the United States. He is a fine classical scholar and possesses a mind stored as well with rich literary acquisitions, as with a knowledge of political science and governmental affairs so necessary to make a member of Congress prominent and useful.

Our readers can form a pretty correct idea of the man, and what his course in the Senate will be from the following extract from his speech in response to the announcement of his election. We commend it to the Democrats of Central Pennsylvania, and request them to give the extract a thoughtful and careful reading. It contains as much pure, unadulterated Democracy, and love of liberty, as any thing that ever fell from the lips of THOMAS JEFFERSON, or from any of the fathers or founders of this Republic. Mr. CARPENTER said:

"Keeping certain leading ideas steadily in view; always remembering that this great people can better bear and survive anything than national dishonor; [great applause;] trusting to the continuing favor of Divine Providence; cultivating the vast resources of agricultural and mineral wealth, with the enterprise and energy of a young and free people, all will be well.

"The great idea upon which our Government was founded was the equality of man; his rights as a man and because a man, without distinctions of birthplace, nationality, race, rank, or color. There can be no concrete, practical thing until it has first been conceived in the mind of God or man. So with government. It must first exist in the mind of the statesman, then be reduced to practice.

"Our Government was the creation of man, and partook of the infirmity which attends all men's work. The wonder now is after eighty years of practical operation, not that our Constitution has defects, but that it has answered the ends of its creation as well as it has. The fundamental error was the attempted compromise between right and wrong, justice and injustice, liberty and slavery—as impossible as a compromise between fire and water. It was unavoidable that the two distinct civilizations existing in the country should produce conflict, and the result was inevitable that the whole should become slave or free. [Applause.] No prudence or sagacity could have much longer averted the crisis.—It came, and thank God, it has passed; and we are now at liberty to return to the first principles upon which the Government was founded, and secure for all time the absolute equality of all men. [Applause.]

"This great idea kept steadily in view will lead us, as the pole star guides the mariner amid tempests and over dangerous seas, to the harbor of peace and prosperity. If we now lose sight of this, however wisely financial questions may be settled, no matter how many railroads to the Pacific we may build, no matter what material prosperity we may attain, if we fail to secure justice to all men in the land, then we neglect the opportunity Heaven has offered us, we dishonor our name, outrage the God who has watched so kindly over us, and the blood of our martyrs has been shed in vain."

THE Democrats are making feeble efforts to have the people believe that to remedy things at Harrisburg they must be restored to power. This would be going from bad to worse. Nobody is going to be deceived. This is a matter wholly within the Republican household. The Republican party all over the State is vindicating its honor and its claim to be trusted, by promptly repudiating the extravagance and corruption of the sixty-one men in the House of Representatives at Harrisburg. The Senate has done so by refusing to sanction the act which has brought them so conspicuously in review before the people. Let Republicans everywhere, while purging the party of this great scandal, demand of the Senate to stand firm. And we will thus show to the Democrats that in attempting to convince the people that a remedy is to be found only in restoring them to power, they will have their labor for their pains. The Republican party of Pennsylvania will show the people that it is able to correct its own errors; and in this way will it prove itself still worthy of the confidence of the people.

THE "GREENEST" YET.—The Meadville correspondent of the Titusville Herald is responsible for the truth of the following:

A ludicrous case of verdancy occurred at the McHenry House a few weeks ago, as follows: A couple from Oakland came to town, got married in the evening, proceeded to the hotel, and at a late hour were found in the sitting room by one of the colored waiters. The newly made Benedict asked the gentleman of color "how soon their bed would be brought in." Sambo politely responded by informing him that if he wished a room he must register his name, when the clerk would assign him one. He accordingly repaired to the office and inscribed his name and the maiden name of his wife below it. Insisting upon having a room together, the clerk inquired if he and the lady were married, when he replied in the affirmative, and pulled from his pocket the marriage certificate! The question of legality being settled, the happy pair were conducted to an apartment. An hour or two after a strong smell of gas sent the night watchman hunting for the leak. It was traced to the room of the newly married pair. Demanding admission and asking the cause of the escaping gas, the rural swain replied, pointing to the gas burner, "that he blew it out and then the darned thing smelt so bad that he put his stocking over it." Sure enough, there was the stocking, drawn over the burner and tied down with a shoestring.

—Notwithstanding the encouragement given to the representatives of the Women's Suffrage Association by the members of the Missouri Legislation, on Thursday, a joint resolution introduced into the House recently, providing for the submission to the people at the next general election of a constitutional amendment declaring that hereafter no person shall be denied the right to vote on account of sex, was tabled by fifty-nine yeas to forty-three nays.

Heroic Conduct of a Charlestown Lady.

One night last week, in Charlestown, Mrs. George Martin awoke and saw two negro burglars in the chamber. One remained while the other went into the adjoining room. The one who remained had a large butcher's knife, which he held over the slumbering Mr. Martin. When the burglar left the bed he placed the knife in his teeth and walked about the room, searching the drawers, from which he took thirty-five dollars in greenbacks and five dollars in gold. After a while he again approached the bedside and elevated the huge knife. Mrs. Martin jumped up and seized an artillery sword near the bed, and while the burglar's arm was extended over her sleeping husband, struck the burglar a terrible blow, which caused the knife to fall from his grasp. While he stooped to pick up the knife she gave him a cut on the head, and as his face swung back she gave him still another blow on the forehead. The burglar rushed at the heroic woman and succeeded in giving her a severe kick in the side, breaking two of her ribs, which caused her to faint and fall. This woke Mr. Martin, who leaped out of bed, only in time to see the scoundrels jump out of the window.

CONDITION OF ARKANSAS.—It is officially stated that in Arkansas, during the three months preceding the calling out of the militia, there were received at the Governor's headquarters authentic accounts of over two hundred different murders perpetrated with impunity in that State, and very many of the most fiendish outrages; but during the forty days which have passed since martial law was declared, but one single murder and not a single outrage has been heard of in that State.

WEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.—The Executive Council of the Philadelphia Board of Trade estimate the product in money, of the coal, iron and oil of this State, for the last year, at $195,000,000. This is a greater sum than is produced by all the gold bearing States and Territories, and yet it is the yield of only the mineral product of the State, leaving the vast agricultural and other sources of her wealth out of view.

NEW ADVERTISEMNETS.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE FOR 1869.

Within the last eight years our country has triumphantly passed through the gravest and most trying perils which have confronted her ever since her Independence was acknowledged. She has vindicated beyond appeal her right to be regarded as no mere confederacy or league of jealous, envious, discordant States, but as substantially and permanently a Nation, wherein the pretensions of no part can be adjusted or upheld in opposition to the integrity, the paramount authority, of One Republic.

The right of each man, by virtue of his birth or naturalization as a citizen of the United States, to the full enjoyment of "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," until he shall forfeit the right by crime, is also established on impregnable foundations. Our fathers proclaimed it in justifying their separation from Great Britain; it was left to us to establish as a fact what they merely affirmed as a principle. What the cannon of Saratoga and Yorktown proclaimed as an abstraction, the cannon of Gettysburg, Vicksburg, and Five Forks, established as a living, embodied, enacted truth. Widely as our flag now floats, still more widely as it may float hereafter, there is, there can henceforth be, no legal master, no fettered slave. Wrongs and abuses, servility and oppression, may still exist; but the Federal Constitution is no longer their shield, and the folds of our flag no longer embrazon nor seek to conceal a lie. The humblest American, so long as he violates no law, is master of his own limbs and the sole owner of all he can earn.

Of these immense results, the importance and the beneficence will become more palpable with every added year. Distance is required to enable us to measure and appreciate the magnitude of the pyramid of Four Millions of shackles, stricken from the scarred limbs of our countrymen, which form the enduring monument of our struggle and our triumph. New arts, new industries, new developments of natural wealth, too long unheeded and unvalued, will year by year stand forth in attestation that none of us has as yet adequately realized the magnitude and the benignity of our National victory.

No great good is ever achieved without effort or without cost. Four years of patriotic struggle and sacrifice, Half a Million of men slain in battle or dying of the privations and exposures of War, Millions of bereaved ones, Five Billions of property destroyed, and nearly Three Billions of Debt incurred, attest the magnitude of the contest and the unyielding valor of the combatants.

At length, the smoke rises from the hard-won field, showing that the last entrenchment has been carried. The election of Grant and Colfax gives assurance that the storm is over—that the Bow of Promise arches the sky. There are still obstacles to surmount, perils to avert, noble ends to be achieved; but the ship of State has ridden out the tempest and has her haven full in view. The seven States reconstructed under the recent acts of Congress, and will be followed by the three that have hitherto stood aloof; the right of the Freedmen will be upheld and respected, and Impartial Suffrage throughout the land will soon plant them on foundations that cannot be shaken.

The Tribune will contend in the future, as in the past, for Universal Amnesty as well as for Impartial Suffrage. It has no faith in vengeance, in proscription, in confiscation, nor in the shedding of blood otherwise than in actual and necessary war. "There is a time for War and a time for Peace;" and the latter follows swiftly on the heels of the former. Whenever those who fought against the Union shall have in good faith given up the contest, they are no longer our foes but our countrymen.

In the joyful trust that Grant's election has given the death-blow to Ku-Klux Klans, and all manner of outrages on Unionists and Freedmen as such, and that Impartial Suffrage will no longer be seriously resisted, we hope to see the next four years signalized by an unprecedented expansion of the National Industry and a consequent increase of the National wealth. We hope to see new cabins dot the prairie, new clearings chequer the forest, new mills, factories, furnaces, erected, North, South, East and West, until our annual product shall be Hundreds of Millions greater than at present, while Mines of Iron and of Coal, of Gold, Silver, Copper, &c., shall be opened and worked, with an energy and to an extent that defies precedent. Believing that the systematic, efficient Protection of Home Industry is the corner-stone of a wise, benignant National Policy, and that it is essential to the rapid development of our latent resources, the prosperity of our country, the maintenance of her Credit, and the honest payment of her Debt, we shall give it our most earnest and active support.

THE DAILY TRIBUNE

has been so long known as the leading political newspaper of the country, that its special features need no elaborate description. It contains the fullest and most accurate reports of the proceedings in Congress and the State Legislatures, careful summaries of news from all quarters of the globe, correspondence from all the principal centers of intelligence at home and abroad, letters from travellers in foreign lands, reviews of new books, dramatical, musical and fine art, criticisms, literary, scientific, and religious miscellanies, and all the multitude of items which make up a first-class daily paper. It is printed with better and cleaner type than any other daily journal in America. It is published every morning, Sunday excepted. Terms, $10 a year; $5 for six months.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE

is published every Tuesday and Friday, and contains all the editorial articles, not merely local in character; literary reviews and art criticisms; letters from a large corps of foreign and domestic correspondents; special and Associated Press telegraphic dispatches; a careful and complete summary of foreign and domestic news; exclusive reports of the proceedings of the Farmers Club of the American Institute; talks about fruit and other horticulture; and agricultural information; stock, financial, cattle, dry goods, and general market reports, which are published in The Daily Tribune. The Semi-Weekly Tribune also gives, in the course of a year, three or four of the best and latest popular novels, by living authors. The cost of these alone, if bought in book form, would be from six to eight dollars. If purchased in the English magazines, from which they are carefully selected, the cost would be three or four times that sum. Nowhere else can so much current intelligence and permanent literary matter be had at so cheap a rate as in The Semi-Weekly Tribune. Those who believe in the principles and approve of the character of The Tribune can increase its power and influence by joining with their neighbors in forming clubs to subscribe for The Semi-Weekly edition. It will in that way be supplied to them at the lowest price for which such a paper can be printed.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE

has continued to circulate a greater number of copies than any other newspaper in the country. We appreciate this confidence, and shall labor to retain it. Its previous attractions will be continued and increased. The main features of our Weekly will be agriculture, literature, politics, and the markets, with the latest summary of the daily news. We have made special arrangements to increase its usefulness as an agricultural journal. The Farmers' Club will be fully reported, and special articles on agricultural topics contributed by the best writers. No farmer who desires to till the soil with profit, and to know the progress constantly made in the science of his calling, can afford to neglect the advantages of a newspaper like The Weekly Tribune, especially when it unites with agriculture other features of interest and profit. The Weekly Tribune contains a summary of all that appears in The Daily and Semi-Weekly editions, while in addition it is made to address itself to the wants of the great farming class. Reviews all of the new publications, and of all that is new in music and the fine arts; letters from all parts of the world—some of them of rare interest to the farmer, as showing the progress of agriculture in other countries; editorial essays on all topics of home and foreign interest, together will be furnished from week to week, and at a lower price than that of any newspaper in America. By pursuing this policy The Weekly Tribune has already attained its present commanding influence and circulation, and we enter upon the new year with an assurance to our readers that no pains and no expense will be spared to give it still greater usefulness and power, and to make it a welcome visitor to every fireside in the land.

The Editor of The Tribune purposes to write, during the year 1869, an elementary work on Political Economy, wherein the policy of Home Industry will be explained and vindicated. This work will first be given to the public through successive issues of The Tribune, and will appear in all its editions—Daily, Semi-Weekly, and Weekly.

We will thank those who think that the influence of The Tribune conduces to the profit and well being of the people, to aid us in extending its circulation.

GREELEY'S HISTORY OF THE WAR.

The Tribune has often been applied to for copies of Mr. Greeley's history of the late Civil War, entitled The American Conflict. Many evidently presume that it is published by us, so that we can give copies at pleasure. In several cases Union soldiers have written us saying that they were unable to pay its full price, but were nevertheless anxious to possess the work, and asking us to tell them by what means they may obtain it. test and the unyielding valor of the combatants.

In deference to these representions the publishers of The Tribune have made an arrangement with Messrs. O. D. Case & Co., publishers of The American Conflict, whereby they are enabled to offer that work to such persons as may see fit to obtain mail subscriptions for The Tribune as follows:

One copy of the History, in two volumes, will be sent to each of the following clubs:
The money for each club to be sent at one time, and all papers for the same club to be addressed to one Post-Office.
For $21, ten copies Weekly Tribune, to names of subscribers
For $33, twenty copies Weekly Tribune, to names of subscribers.
For $81, fifty copies Weekly Tribune, to names of subscribers.
For $116, one hundred copies Weekly Tribune, to name of subscribers
For $20, ten copies Weekly Tribune, to one address.
For $31, twenty copies Weekly Tribune, to one address.
For $56, fifty copies Weekly Tribune, to one address.
For $106, one hundred copies Weekly Tribune, one address.
For $36, ten copies Semi-Weekly Tribune, to one Post-Office.
For $63, twenty copies Semi-Weekly Tribune, to one Post-Office.
For $116, forty copies Semi-Weekly Tribune, to one Post-Office.

Friends wishing to secure the History on these terms must send the Clubs precisely as we have them, Semi-Weekly and Weekly, subscriptions must not be mixed in one Club.

The American Conflict is a History of the late Civil War, its causes and incidents, in two large and well printed octavos of 648 and 782 pages respectively, and is sold for $10. It is abundantly and admirably illustrated with plans of battles and seiges, portraits of Presidents, Generals, Governors, &c., who were prominent in the struggle, and with a very large Map of the seat of war. It has received from all quarters the highest commendations for accuracy of statement and fullness of detail. It is substantially bound, and must be deemed a valuable addition to any library. These volumes should be placed in every School District library in the land, and each school contains scholars who can, with a few hours of attention, raise a Tribune Club and secure the history. Almost any one who wants can now obtain it by giving a few hours to obtaining subscription for the The Tribune among his friends and neighbors, and we hope many will be incited to do so. The work will be promptly forwarded by express or by mail, prepaid, on receipt of the required subscriptions.

Terms, cash in advance.

Drafts on New-York, or Post-Office orders, payable to the order of THE TRIBUNE, being safer, are preferable to any other mode of remittance. Address

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.

In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at

ICE.—Notwithstanding the soft weather we have an overabundance of ice on our pavements in some portions of town; but the chances for well-filled ice houses are, we think, rather slim. H N. McAllister, always ahead, filled his the first freeze.

THIEVES AGAIN.—On Saturday night the 6th inst., the store of Messrs Hahn & Wagner, in Milesburg Pa., was entered by two or more thieves, who attempted to blow open the safe. They did not succeed in getting the safe open, and we have not learned whether they stole any dry-goods or other articles from the store.

SEWING MACHINE:—J. J Bisel & Co., of Lock Haven, advertises the great American Sewing Machine. We are not personally acquainted with this firm; but from the fact that they have sought out our columns as an advertising medium, we judge they are not only sharp, but honest men.

W. W. Montgomery would take this opportunity of informing the public that he is now "selling off" his entire stock of Furnishing Goods, at cost; such as hats and caps, shirts, (linen, muslin and flannel,) underclothing, socks, suspenders and numerous other articles. He is doing this in order to make room for spring and summer stock. Give him a call.

THE Republican at Lock Haven, referring to the death of James A Patten, says he was killed on the Bald Eagle valley road A mistake. He was killed on the P. & E. road, a few miles above Lock Haven, and the ignorance of the facts professed by our contemporary is something hard to account for. Patten was killed in Clinton county, and by sheer carelessness.

NEW LAW FIRM.—In another column of the Republican will be seen the professional card of Gen. W. H Blair and H. Y. Stitzer. Blair & Stitzer, Att rneys at-Law, Bellefonte Pa., can be consulted in either the German or English language Both these gentlemen are men of good habits and business tact, and, we have no doubt will render general satisfaction to their clients. We wish them success.

WE have received a copy of an able speech delivered in the House of Representatives by Hon. John H. Stover, of the Fifth Missouri District, in advocacy of the right of Mr. Anderson, of Missouri, to his seat. Although the report of the Committee on elections was against him, we are happy to notice that the House declared in favor of Anderson, and that upon the grounds set forth in Col. Stover's Argument.

TINWARE.—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. Wetzler & Twimire, dealers in tinware, stoves, spouting, lightning rods, &c., at Milesburg, Pa. This firm is determined not to be undersold. They manufacture all the tinware they sell, and warrant it good. They say they are determined to sell at such prices as to induce all the people of Centre county to purchase from them. They are honest and trustworthy young men. Give them a call.

PLANING MILL.—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. Moore & Wolf of the Milesburg Planing Mill. We visited this mill not long since, and was surprised to see the fine machinery in this mill and the facilities of this company for turning out all kinds of lumber for building purposes.—Messrs. Moore & Wolf are industrious, worthy and enterprising men, and deserve the patronage of builders and others. For full particulars see advver.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS.—We understand that Messrs. Breckbill, Felty & Zimmerman, who bought the lot opposite the Bush Arcade, formerly the residence of Rev. Jas. Lynn, have divided said lot into three, and each of the parties intend to build next summer. Mr. Felty has already commenced digging out the foundation. It is the intention of Mr. Breckbill to put up a three story brick building on his lot. These improvements will greatly beautify that portion of our town D. G. Bush intends to build another brick block just opposite the new Hotel building of Bush & McLain, on the ground formerly owned by Isaac Haupt.

BOROUGH ELECTION.—An election will be held on Friday, the 19th inst. for the purpose of electing one Judge of Election, two Inspectors, two Overseers of the Poor, Assessor, Constable, &c. We hope our friends will see to it, and nominate good, true and popular men, that we may be enabled to increase our strength, and feel proud of our officers when elected. Let there be no petty spites, no heart-burnings, no envy, no jealousy. To this end we are authorized to say that a meeting will be held in the Republican Reading Room, on Wednesday evening, the 17th inst., for the purpose of nominating candidates to fill the various offices. Let all make it a point to be present.

PUBLIC SALES.—There will be exposed to public sale, at the residence of David Allison, near Spring Mills, Gregg tp., on Wednesday, the 17th of February, five head of good horses, cows, young cattle, hogs, breeding sows, sheep, one Buckeye reaper and mower, and other farming implements, together with a large lot of household and kitchen furniture.

Also, at the residence of John Rhinehart, near Spring Mills, on the 24th day of February, will be sold five head of work horses, one colt, five cows, young cattle, sheep, shoats, threshing machine and power, fanning mill, grain drill, cultivators, plows, corn plows, wagons, buggy, gears, harness, household and kitchen furniture, and a number of articles too tedious to mention. Our citizens will make money by attending these sales.

HOY & Co.—We invite the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Hoy & Co. Their restaurant is on the north side of the Diamond, just opposite the Court House. They serve up oysters in every style, and never allow any one to go away, either dry or hungry.

GEM RESTAURANT.—Mr. Malifant, of the Gem Restaurant, in Bush & McLain's new building near the Depot, is hard to beat in catering to the wants and appetites of his customers. It is a quiet, genteel place. Table clothes, white as snow, and tables filled with every thing and anything you may choose to order.—Meals at all hours. See adver.

FUNNY.—The young ladies who dressed themselves in men's apparel and paraded Bishop street on Saturday evening last, must be fond of fun, indeed. You are known girls; better not try it again. Is it not strange that McMahon's shoe store was robbed the same night? We do not say these masculine girls did it.

BURGLARY.—On last Saturday night, the boot and shoe manufactory of Peter McMahon was broken open and fourteen or fifteen pairs of boots and shoes stolen. Mr. McMahon has, it seems, all the bad luck. It is but a few weeks since he lost heavily by a fire. We hope that the robbers may be caught and brought to justice.

CLOTHES LINE ROBBED.—On Monday night last the clothes line of Mr. John Montgomery was stripped of everything that was on it, consisting of six or eight new shirts, muslins, sheets, pillow cases &c, worth in all about $30. These petty larcenies, robberies and burglaries are becoming too frequent for comfort, or the welfare of Society. Every body should be on the alert for them.

GLASS WORKS.—The Bellefonte Glass works are now in full working trim under the management and control of Jacob V. Thomas, Bro., & Co. These works possess facilities for making good and superior glass unequalled by any establishment in the country. Under the supervision of the above named firm, we predict a new era in the manufacture of glass in this county, and abundant success to the enterprising company.

NEW CHURCH.—The Episcopal congregation are making preparations to build a new church next summer. The lot has been secured, and we understand the money necessary to finish the building has all been subscribed. Its estimated cost is $30,000. The congregation deserve great credit for their energy in this much needed enterprise. Some of the members subscribed very liberally. We would be pleased to publish their names; but as they have acted in this matter upon the principle of "let not your left hand know what your right hand doeth" we forbear. There is nothing that speaks so favorably of the morals and intelligence of either town or country as neat churches—stately edifices—dedicated to the worship of Almighty God.

ROBBERS.—We referred last week to a smoke house which was robbed of all the meat that was in it. We have thus far failed to learn the particulars; but have succeeded in ascertaining that the smoke house referred to belonged to a Mr. Stover, who lives near the Phœnix Mills in this borough. The thieves broke open his smokehouse and stole therefrom the meat of six hogs leaving not one particle for Mr. Stover. The next morning the meat hooks were found along the road, where they had been thrown by the thieves. By means of these hooks, rumor has it, the thieves were traced into Patton twp., and some of the meat recovered. We have not learned, whether any arrests have been made. We think there is no necessity to go to Patton twp., to find the theives. If found at all they will be found much nearer home.

CONCERT.—Misses Mary Irwin, Stella Gallagher, Ellie Macmanus, Carrie Sayers and Mrs. John P. Harris, with Miss. Emily Natt as Directress, assisted by Drs. Hibler and Harris, Messrs. Montgomery, Blanchard and Gallagher, gave a musical entertainment in aid of the Episcopal church, at Bush's Hall, on Monday evening last.

The affair was a grand success in every way, and the audience were justly delighted with it. No entertainment furnished in the Hall the present season has been so well received and appreciated by our citizens.

We hope that in future we may have frequent entertainments from these accomplished musicians, who can do much to make up to our people the time heretofore lost with traveling troups of no merit.

SPRING ELECTIONS.—The time appointed by law for holding the Spring election is Friday, the 19th inst. We hope the Republicans in every township whether in the majority or minority will hold a meeting after due notice, and place in nomination for the different offices the very best men you have. For School Directors you should select no man unless he is known to be a reliable and active friend of free schools and our entire educational system. For Judge of election an intelligent, upright, firm man should be chosen. Nominate a full ticket in every township. Make no compromise tickets; no half-and-half arrangements. Let your motto be, no compromise with wrong. Form a good ticket, and then, politely, but earnestly, invite your Democratic neighbors to vote it. Hundreds of them are satisfied that they have been humbugged by the Court House clique, and that Democracy is a sham and a cheat. They desire to leave the party, and the Spring election is the best time for them to declare their intentions.—Encourage them all you can. Open the door and give them a hearty welcome.—They see and know that the Republican party saved the Constitution and the Government—that it is the friend of the poor and humblest of our citizens—that it is the friend of the broadest liberty—the mainstay of the nation—the hope of the down-trodden and oppressed of all the earth.

Honest Democrats, fall into ranks and march along with this great army of progress and liberty.

LOGAN FOUNDRY.—Bayard Jinkens & Co., have chosen our columns as a medium through which, to inform the farmers and others of Centre county, where they can buy the best plows, plow-shares and castings of all kinds This is a reliable firm and, our citizens can depend upon it, will do just what they promise. Capt. Bayard is well known to all our citizen as an honest upright man, his partners are also good men. See advertisement for further particulars.

PITTSBURG COMMERCIAL.—This most excellent daily paper is on our table. It is, without exaggeration, one of the best daily papers in the State, and most emphatically the leading paper of the West. It is as near perfection in its foreign and domestic news department, in its commercial and financial department as it is possible for human energy and ability to make it, while in politics it is soundly and thoroughly Republican, and a strong advocate of the strictest economy in the administration of the government, both State and National. We recommend it with pleasure to the citizens of this county who may want a first class daily paper.

DUTIES OF POSTMASTERS.—Much trouble would be saved if postmasters were more generally familiar with their duties.—Postmasters should remember that when a paper remains dead in the office for four consecutive weeks, it is their duty to send the publisher of the paper a written notice of the fact—stating, if possible, the reason why the paper is not taken. The returning to the publisher of a paper marked "not taken," "refused," or "uncalled for," is not a legal notice. Postmasters who fail to comply with the law in this respect are liable for the time said papers remain dead in their office,

MILESBURG.—We feel so thankful to the people of Milesburg for the large list of subscribers to the Republican, sent us that we would like to write something very pretty about the town and its citizens. But what shall it be? There is no robberies, no burglaries, no petty larcenies, no romantic or runaway marriages, no fights, no locals of any kind, or if so, nobody reports them. We know it is a very decent and enterprising town, and this accounts for the large circulation of the Republican. The merchants are all doing well, selling goods exceedingly low, so they say, and we have no reason to doubt it. Nevertheless, the people will pass them and come to Bellefonte, occasionally to buy goods. Moral—because they do not advertise in the Republican.

THE HONESTEST MAN.—The Montrose Republican says: "The wickedest man" lives in New York and is named John Allen. We are inclined to think that "the honestest man" lives in Lathrop, Susquehanna county, Pa., and is named John Johnson. Here is a notice he sends to the Independent Republican:

NOTICE.—I was "burned out" about twelve years ago, and my neighbors and friends raised a subscription for my benefit, for which I was and am very thankful. Having since been prospered, I have repaid all those whom I could readily find; but there are some on the list not yet repaid, and this notice is to request all such to let me know their present address, by letter or otherwise.

JOHN JOHNSON.

Lathrop, January 30, 1869.

We think the above should be noticed, as such honesty is rather a rare article at the present time.

"MACK," in one of his Washington letters, finds room for the following short sermon on "judicious advertising:"

"One of the wealthiest members of the House of Representatives is a gentleman from Brooklyn, has made all his money out of patent medicines, and owes his success to judicious and extensive advertising. It is not many years since he went to New York poor and friendless, but he had good business habits, which he soon made useful, and to day, while yet a young man, he is "vastly rich." It will take a long time, I fear, to teach merchants as a class the truth which they ought to learn from such histories as the one referred to. Especially is this the case in the growing West, and it is perhaps more true of Cincinnati than of any other city in the West. Merchants think there that customers will come without solicitation, or those who do advertise, do it on a scale so small as to be useless. It is only once in a long while that a man is found who properly appreciates the value of printer's ink in the accumulation of a fortune. When such a one is found, however, he always succeeds."

TANNERY.—We visited the Bald Eagle Valley Tannery, owned by Messrs. Downing & Somerville, a few weeks since.—We were surprised as well as astonished to see what a building they had erected, and the labor-saving machinery they have employed to aid them in the manufacture of leather. Pumps, bark-mill, in fact every thing in it is run by steam. Every thing in order, and running as regular as clock work. Mr. R. T. Downing, we understand, did the planning, and had it built strictly in accordance with his design. It is a masterpiece, and does great credit to our enterprising friend, Mr. Downing.

The vats were all full of leather in process of tanning. The second and third floors were so full of leather, finished and ready, or about ready for market, that our ingress and egress was almost impossible. At a rough guess, we think, including what was in the vats, that we saw $50,000 worth of leather. Think of that, in one tannery, in Bald Eagle valley! We concluded, when we saw it, that all the "big things" were not in Bellefonte. There may be tanneries upon as large a scale in the State, but we are quite certain that Central Pennsylvania does not contain the equal of the Bald Eagle Valley Tannery.

The mechanics and employees of this large establishment are all intelligent men. Each having his regular sphere and respective duties to perform, and doing them with a will, working heartily for their own as well as their employers' interests. None of them are free traders.

THE Chicago correspondent of the Bellefonte Republican is a regular "brick." He is brimful of good humor, and his letters would extract the vinegar from the veriest cynic.—Republican, Lock Haven, Pa.

MARRIAGE PORTION.—The marriage portion of a young bride in olden times was a feather bed, six chairs, a plain cherry table and bureau, six cups and saucers, half a dozen silver teaspoons, and a lot of sand for sanding floors. Now they expect a set of silver plate, carved hair seat sofas, ottomans, divans, tete-a-tetes, rosewood pianos, marbletop tables for parlors, and painted furniture for chambers. Brussel carpets, and all other such modern fixtures for show.

PROFITABLE DAIRY.—Mr. Bateman Monroe, of Sullivan, last year kept a dairy of 13 old cows and 2 two-year-old heifers—equal to 15 head. From the milk of these cows he made $1040 worth of butter for market, and from the buttermilk realized, in calves and pork, $125. Total $1175; or $78 48 to each cow, counting the heifers as cows of full growth.

We do not know how this looks to other people, but to us it looks as if Mr. Monroe kept no deadheads in his dairy last year, and managed it with great skill.—We call that investing money at 6 per cent. per month. If any other man in Tioga can show a clearer balance sheet for 1868 we are ready to help him before the public.—Tioga Agitator, Feb. 3, 1868.

A DASTARDLY ACT—Attempt to Fire the Home for Friendless Children.—The Lancaster Express says: One of the most cowardly and dastardly acts ever perpetrated in this city, was committed at the Home for Friendless Children last evening. About eight o'clock some one entered the front door and proceeded to the front sitting room, deposited in the centre of the floor a ball of rags saturated with coal oil or some other inflammable liquid, and set fire to it. The matron, Miss Spence, immediately afterward entered the room, just in time to gather up the blazing ball and cast it into the stove. The carpet was burned through and the floor slightly charred. But for the timely arrival of the matron, a fearful calamity would probably have ensued.—children, of whom there are about two hundred in the institution, had nearly all retired to bed, and many were sound asleep. The act was the work of a grown person, at least one who wore large shoes, as the prints of the shoes in the snow in front of the door were plainly visible last evening. The person after setting fire to the ball retired to the outside of the building, and went to the front window to watch the progress of his infernal work This was evident from the foot-prints in the snow. We hope that no effort will be spared to bring the miscreant to justice. No punishment could be too severe for such a wretch.

THE Mifflin & Centre R. R. doesn't promise to run into our valley so soon yet At a meeting of the Snowshoe Co., with the Penna. R. R. Co's officers, in Philadelphia a few days ago, for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for the construction of this much desired road, the parties seperated without being able to agree.

A new movement is now talked of by the Snowshoe Co., which is the continuation of their road eastward through Penn's Valley to Penn's creek, following that stream, and intersecting with the ros I now being built in Snyder county. This would suit our whole valley, and in case it is undertaken, our citizens may expect to be called upon for liberal subscriptions.—Centre Hall Reporter.

We do not know what point of intersection is here alluded to, but we think our Centre county friends will find a more natural outlet through Union county. A bridge has been constructed at Lewisburg and the track will be completed to Montandon in the Spring. The citizens of the upper end of Union county will aid liberally in the extension of the road westward, and if a common effort, in connection with the Snowshoe Company were made, we believe the road could be extended the entire distance from Lewisburg to Bellefonte. Let there be an effort made in this direction.—Telegraph, Mifflinburg, Pa.

So we say. Let there be a strong, united effort made in this direction. It takes money as well as effort to build railroads. Heretofore our Pennsvalley and Union county farmers have acted as though they thought the road would build itself, or that the Snowshoe Railroad Co. would build it finally, without the aid of the farmers We assure these farmers, however, that the Snowshoe Co. will do no such thing. We are anxious to have a Railroad from Bellefonte to Milroy, or to Lewisburg We confess we would prefer making the road from Bellefonte to Lewisburg. This would benefit both Penns valley and Brush valley, and all of Union county. That this is true, no one can doubt. Why is it, then, that our farmers in those beautiful and fertile valleys are so slow to move and so indifferent as to the final consummation of this great enterprise?

If this Railroad were built it would enhance the value of land at least twenty-five per cent. Of this there can be no doubt. Land in those Valleys now worth from $60 to $80 per acre, would then be worth from $80 to $1 20.

Take Bald Eagle valley, for instance, before the Tyrone & Lock Haven Railroad was built. There were hundreds of acres lying between this place and Tyrone, valued at from $1 to $5, now it is held at from $15 to $50, and some as high as $100. So it would be in Penns valley, only to a greater extent, because the land is better, and better adapted to agricultural purposes.

With these facts fully established, what is the duty of the farmers and land-owners in Penns, Brush and Buffalo valleys? It is to call meetings without delay, and agitate the building of this road. Make it a general thing. Get every body along the line interested, and then let every man subscribe from 10 to 20 per cent. on the assessed valuation of his land, to raise a fund to grade this road, and we have no doubt the Snowshoe road will do the balance.

WIRE MILL.—We understand that the Messrs Valentines & Co., have in contemplation the erection, near their Iron works, of an extensive Wire Mill or manufactory. This is, certainly a move in the right direction. Why send the bar iron to Massachusetts to be manufactured into wire? Why not manufacture it here, and thus give employment to more men and get out of the iron all the money there is in it? We hope it is true.

SAD ACCIDENT.—On Monday morning last Martin V. B. Flegal, of Goshen tp., son of Jacob Flegal, went to a neighbors to borrow a gun for the purpose of shooting dogs that were killing the sheep. On his return with the gun he met his brother Robert where he was loading timber. He stopped and helped his brother awhile with the timber, and while standing leaning on the gun, it went off by some means, the ball entering his left eye, and passing out through the skull, killing him instantly. Another brother and some hands were working near by. The deceased was about 26 years of age. He leaves a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn his loss.—Raftsman Journal.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—The Lewistown True Democrat says: Tuesday of last week John H. Weber, of this place, was very seriously hurt at the steel works of the Freedom Iron Company under the following circumstances, viz; He, with a barrow containing five hundred pounds of pig iron, was being hoisted up to the platform upon the elevator, when, just before the platform was reached, the chain broke, and the elevator with its load was precipitated to the ground below, a distance of fifteen feet. In falling Mr. Weber received some severe injuries about the head, but sustained far more serious ones about his ankles and feet, from the load of iron falling upon him. His recovery from these injuries must undoubtedly be tedious; but he may be thankful that he escaped with his life.—Mr. Weber had contemplated quitting the iron works next week, and going to Iowa to engage in farming.

MILESBURG, PA., Feb. 1, 1869.

Mr. Editor:—Allow me through the columns of your excellent paper, to give your many readers some of the interesting incidents of our pleasant little village. Among those most worthy of note is the gracious revival of religion going on in the M. E. Church of this place.—The meeting has been in progress some four weeks; during that time fifty or more have been converted, and the good work still goes on, the alter being crowded nightly with penitents. The meeting is under the ministerial charge of the Rev. E. Butler. Under his efficient preaching one is reminded of primitive Methodism. The old way-worn pastor has stood on the walls of Zion, as an Embassador of Christ for some 40 years, and yet his energy and zeal as a preacher has no parallel. To appreciate his preaching is to apply it to practice. His labors around the circuit have been crowned with success; in fact, his meeting at this place has not been equaled far the last twenty years. May he be compensated for his untiring labors by wearing a crown of rejoicing brighter far than all the diadems of earth.

W. G.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.—At a regular meeting of Centre Lodge No. 153, I O of O F., held at their Lodge Room, on Thursday evening, the 21st ult., the following preamble and resolutions, were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased an Allwise providence to remove from our midst our worthy brother, James A. Patton, by death, most sudden and terrible, therefore be it

Resolved, That we cherish the memory of our deceased brother for his many virtues, and though his spirit has gone beyond the "dark valley," we shall ever revert to our association with him, feeling deeply sensible that we too are passing away, and that the "living of to-day, become the dead of to-morrow."

Resolved, That we recognize, in this visitation of death, an especial manifestation of the uncertainty of life, and the certainty of that law which the Great Father of our being has established, as irrevocable.

Resolved, That these resolutions be recorded upon the minutes of our Lodge, and a copy forwarded, by the secretary, to the family of the deceased, with whom we deeply sympathize in their sad bereavement.

Resolved, That our Lodge Room be draped in mourning, and the brothers wear that badge which is the appropriate custom of the order on funeral occasions, for the space of thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to our county papers for publication.

ACCUMULATED CAPITAL OVER $62,000,—Penn's Mutual Horse Thief Detecting And Insurance Co.—

YORK, PA., SEPTEMBER 15th, 1868.

DEAR SIR:—In consideration of the failure of the Hartford Live Stock Insurance Company, and of others that have preceded it, the Directors of this Company deem it prudent to exercise additional care and caution in transacting the Company's business. With this end in view, we have revised and amended the Tables of Rates heretofore used, and have ruled out, as uninsurable, some of the more hazardous classes of stock.

A copy of the revised rates is herewith enclosed, and which you will hereafter follow.

Agents are requested to make special efforts to secure insurance on farm and private family horses, (making this, as far as possible, a FARMERS' COMPANY,) and guard vigilently against insurance on unsound or diseased animals, as well as against insurance based on fancy values or on fancy stocks.

By strictly adhering to the rules and regulations of the Company, it is confidently believed that the business of Live Stock insurance may be successfully prosecuted.

DAVID STRICKLER,
Secretary.

P. S.—The above Company is the only reliable one, taking insurance on horses or mules, in the country at the present time.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, Feb. 10 '69.

Can the United States Raise its own Barley?

Large quantities of barley are annually imported into the United States from Canada, and in addition to this it is said that orders have recently been sent to England for many thousand bushels. The fact is a significant one. Barley requires good land and good culture. We have abundance of good land, but what shall we say of its culture? Let the price of barley answer.

There was a time when it seemed doubtful whether we could afford to improve our farms in the older settled parts of the country as long as we had to compete with the cheap and fertile land of the West. To spend $30 in draining an acre of land in Western New York, while this sum would buy 20 acres of choice land in Iowa, required more faith in good farming than most of us possessed. But the truth seems to be that land, in itself considered, has comparatively little value. What is it worth in parts of Texas or South America? It is the labor, skill and capital, expended upon it directly and indirectly that gives it value. We build roads, canals, railways, towns, cities, churches and school-houses, and every dollar so spent adds to the value of the land.—In this view, the land in the West is not so much cheaper than at the East as is generally supposed; and at all events we need not hesitate to expend capital for needed improvements on our farms, for fear that the fertile lands of the West will so flood our markets with cheap produce that we cannot make a living. At any rate, if we cultivate our land at all we must cultivate it well. The only farmers who have been greatly benefited by the high prices of the last six years are those whose land is in good condition; and this will always be the case. We think there can be no doubt that our general system of farming is improving, but there is still great need of more thorough culture and manuring. The high price of barley, and the fact that we obtain such large quantities from Canada, where the soil and climate are no better than with us, and that the freight, duty and premium on gold, give us at least 25 cents a bushel advantage in price, is a sure indication that we are not farming as well as it is for our interest to do. Barley, as we have said, requires high culture, and at present prices we can certainly afford to put our land in proper condition to produce a large yield.

We do not, at this time, propose discussing the best method of growing barley. Our object is to call attention to a fact that affords encouragement to those who are expending capital in the improvement of their land. Poor farmers can raise good barley. Let those who are underdraining and otherwise improving their land, and are sometimes frightened at the expense, take courage.—There is an absolute necessity for an improved system of agriculture, and those who are getting their land in good condition will assuredly have their reward.—Amer. Agriculturist.

Management of Cows in Winter.

A correspondent of the Agriculturist inquires: "When cows are stabled in winter, how long should they be allowed to remain in the yard during the day?" This depends a good deal on the weather, and also on the food and whether the cows are expected to give milk or not. When the object is to obtain milk in winter, if water is supplied in the stable we would seldom turn them out at all. And if necessary to turn them out to water, we would let them out twice a day, say for ten or fifteen minutes. Cows like to be humored a little in regard to watering. They will not drink as readily as a horse. They should be allowed plenty of time. When cows are not giving milk and it is desirable to have them eat coarse fodder, they should be turned out for several hours during the day. They will eat this class of fodder much better in the yard than in the stable. Judgement, however, should be exercised. If the weather is stormy; they will be better in the stable, and at all times, if they seem cold and are not eating or enjoying themselves, let them be immediately tied up. Let the stable be well ventilated and cleaned out twice a day, and made as dry and comfortable as possible. The great defect in most stables is in not having sufficient ventilation. The ventilators should be so arranged that they can easily be adjusted to suit the weather. Make it a rule to visit the stable before retiring for the night, and see that everything is right.

FOUL WATER IN CISTERNS.—"A reader" says that the cisterns for watering cattle in his vicinity have become foul, and wants to know a remedy.—This is occasioned sometimes by the falling in of earth worms or rats from the top, which die and putrefy. The remedy for this would be the cementing of the top of the cistern so as to keep out the worms and vermin.—Sometimes the cistern has no ventilation, and the water is drawn by a pump. If the cistern were opened and an endless chain pump or a bucket with windlass were introduced to draw the water, the difficulty would be remedied. Even in wells the water is thought to be benefited by frequent agitations. Cisterns should be thoroughly cleaned once a year, and it is a safeguard against untimely cracking to make a wash of hydraulic lime and brush over the inside.—American Agriculturist.

CARD THE COWS.—One would think that any kind-hearted man, when he sees how grateful this operation is to a cow, would be willing to spend a few moments daily in carding her. It pays as well to clean a cow as a horse. All who have fairly tried it find great benefit from the operation. And yet not one farmer in a hundred makes it a practice to use the card or curry-comb in the cow-stable. We know stupid men who laugh at the idea as a mere notion of some fancy farmer. But, in point of fact, no cow can give the best results at the pail unless this matter is attended to, especially in winter.

Fix Up the Implements.

During the winter every implement and machine that will be required next spring and summer should be overhauled and repaired. Examine the plows, and if they have been neglected and are rusty, wash off the dirt and then apply with a swab fastened on the end of a stick, a mixture of one part sulphuric acid and two parts of water. Rub the mould-board and other parts that are rusty, with this liquid until the rust is removed; then wash it off and rub it dry. Then smooth over it with crude petroleum or some other cheap oil, and next spring you will be saved from the loss and annoyance of clogging. Every farmer should buy a barrel of petroleum, and use it freely on all his wagons, machines, implements, etc. It will keep the iron from rusting and the wood from decay, and in cold weather it is a useful lubricating oil. We find it absolutely essential to keep on hand several sizes of carriage bolts. With these and a brace, and a set of bits, nearly all ordinary fractures can be easily repaired. It is a great convenience, also, to have a vice, and to keep an assortment of uncut nuts, with the tools for making the thread in them and also on the bolts. All these thing can be obtained at a hardware store, and a farmer who buys them will never regret it. But if it is necessary to take anything to the blacksmith's shop, now is the time to do it, and when it is repaired, clean off the rust, paint it with linseed oil, and put it away for use in the spring. If the farmer or his son would go over all the implements, machinery, wagons, hay racks, tools, etc., paint them, oil and tighten the bolts, and see that everything is strong and in good order, it would not only greatly lessen the blacksmith's bill, but would save much precious time and no little annoyance next spring and summer.—The winter is also the time to make whiffletrees, and three horse eveners. It is a great advantage to have an extra set of these on hand.—American Agriculturist.

TREE PEDDLERS.—"T. M.," Goshen, N. Y., writes: "It would be an excellent plan if you would call the attention of your readers to the importance of not patronizing the men who are going about canvassing for fruit trees. I have bought several times, and the trees are now beginning to bear, but out of fifty different varieties that I purchased, not one is true to name. In fact, they are all of one kind of apple, small and sour. I hear this complaint all over this section. It is necessary that we who want trees should go to some reliable nurseryman, and state to him what we want. One of my neighbors bought 300 apple trees and 150 pear trees; they were to be of the best varieties of fruit, and the apples turned out to be crab apples, and the pears at present it is hard to name, for there is scarcely any taste to the fruit, and it is very small. You can do a great amount of good by writing an article, and urging upon your readers the importance of avoiding such scamps as these tree agents are." If friend "T. M." had the Agriculturist for many years he would have seen frequent warnings against tree peddlers, and the advice to order directly of the nurseries. As a class, the tree peddlers are a bad lot. They get orders and fill them with what they can pick up. In condemning all who travel and solicit orders for trees, some very worthy people will be included. Some of the best nurseries have travelling agents, who will fill orders faithfully; but these are not of the class to which our correspondent alludes. It is always the safest to order direct, and never safe to order of a stranger unless he can give satisfactory proof that he is a duly authorized agent of some nursery of good reputation.—American Agriculturist.

HOW TO MAKE RAILS DURABLE.—Almost every one notices a difference in the rails used for fencing material. Timber left with the bark on rots very much quicker than that which is split and seasoned. Some rails last but three or 4 years, and others are good for fifteen or twenty. There is a difference, of course in the woods used for this purpose. Birch poles are sometimes worthless after a year's use, and chestnut is very durable. Experiments show that rails cut and split soon after midsummer last much longer than those prepared in winter.—But summer is usually fully occupied with tillage and harvest, and of necessity fencing material must be prepared at a time of more leisure. If cut early in the winter, (and none should be cut late) have the logs split immediately, and the rails piled where the sun and wind can have free access to them. It is a good plan to draw them to where they are to be used, as the ground is now frozen.—Peel poles too small for splitting.—American Agriculturist.
